Greenbelters Testify to Empty Seats At County Council Redistricting Hearing

by Margaret Hogensen

Greenbelt city officials, representatives of local organizations and just plain citizens testified at a County Council hearing at Upper Marlboro on November 19 about the "shock and anger" in Greenbelt concerning the proposed county redistricting plan.

The hearing had been set for 9 a.m. A fairly large contingent from Greenbelt was present, though several members of the City Council were unable to attend at that hour. At times during the hearing only three of the 11 members of the county council were in the room, though most of the time four were present. Several speakers commented on this apparent lack of interest in hearing the citizens.

Both Mayor Richard Castaldi and Mayor Pro Tem Gil Weidenfeld testified in support of council bill 175, introduced by Councilwoman Ann Lombardi, based on the Redistricting Commission's Minority Plan, and known as the Ennis Plan. Mayor Castaldi said that Greenbelt and others would have to pursue litigation if CB 184 introduced by Councilman McDonough was passed. This bill is a "patchwork modification to the recommended plan," he said, and was "completely unacceptable."

Weidenfeld told the Council that he had never seen the citizens of Greenbelt "so enraged as they are by this gerrymandering proposal." Katherine Keene, testifying for GHI, pointed out that Greenbelt has been placed in "a long, convoluted, meandering district" that also contains Bowie, which means that Greenbelt will never be able to have direct representation on the Council.

Tony McCarthy, President of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club, appealed to the Council not to abdicate their responsibilities to provide effective leadership in the interests of good government. He felt that if the Council adopts the majority plan it will haunt the Democratic Party in the future. Presenting the Council with over 1400 signatures on a petition opposed to the Commission Majority (Henderson) plan, McCarthy pointed out that the signatures were not wholly from Greenbelt but from other communities as well.

A new organization, the Greenbelt Democratic Coordinating Committee, was represented by Muriel Weidenfeld. She too spoke of the possibility of the Democratic Party being harmed should the gerrymandered redistricting proposal be passed.

Judith Davis, resident of Greenbriar, commented on the empty chairs she was addressing and then reminded the Council that Greenbelters have long memories. Also speaking in opposition to the Commission plan were Irene Hensel, representing Citizens for Greenbelt, Eunice Coxon, Ruth Bond, David Lange, Bob Zugby, Dick French representing the Greenbelt Jaycees, and Al Lowrey, all from Greenbelt. All emphasized that the Commission majority plan does not meet with the approval of Greenbelt, and that it did not represent a compact, contiguous district.

Not one speaker defended the Commission plan, and speakers were present from the American Civil Liberties Union, the League of Women Voters, Prince Georges Women's Political Caucus, the Riverdale Civic Improvement Association as well as several from the southern part of the county.

In addition, State Senator Ed Conroy, Delegate Joan Pitkin, former Delegate Leo Green, and Ella Ennis also criticized the Commission plan, with its lizard-like gerrymander.

Former Greenbelter, the Rev. Perry Smith, told the three persons present at the time he made his remarks that the reason given for the early hour for the hearing—nine o'clock—had been that this was the only time that a hearing could be held when all the Council could be present, and that while Ms. Mills absence was unavoidable (her father died) he was disappointed at the rest. He expressed great concern at the lack of proper representation for black citizens.

Katherine Keene also contributed to this story.

There will be a free will offering for the needy of Prince Georges County. The community is invited.

Motorists Deadline Nears On Tickets and Repairs

Thousands of Maryland motorists face the possible withholding of their tag renewal applications next February should they fail to pay parking tickets or comply with auto safety equipment repair orders by Monday, November 30, the Motor Vehicle Administration has warned.

In the case of parking tickets not paid by November 30, not only will the tag renewal application of the motorist be withheld, or "flagged," but a special flagging fine of up to $10.00 may also be imposed by subdivisions participating in the program, or monthly late fines, or both. Greenbelters can pay parking tickets at the office of the City Treasurer in the Municipal Building.

COUNCIL CALLS FOR COMPROMISE ON CAPITOL CADILLAC SITE PLAN

by Mavis Fletcher

During the regular city council meeting on November 16, council members considered Advisory Planning Board (APB) report No. 257, which dealt with a Capitol Cadillac site plan revision for Golden Triangle Lot 8.

The site plan submitted pertains to a portion only of the Capitol Cadillac property — that portion lying to the east of the building which was originally to be a circular, grassed display area adjacent to the Capital Beltway. The latest plan calls for the entire area to be made into a gravel parking lot, edged by trees planted at appropriate spacing.

The existing pylon sign located near the Beltway is to be moved to the extreme southern limit of the property next to the Beltway. Next to this sign is to be placed a 70-foot pole upon which is to be placed an 8x12 ft. American flag. The adjacent six-story Prudential Building, at 72 ft. 8 in., would barely top the flagpole.

In report 257, APB recommended disapproval of the revised site plan. The Board further recommended that if Capitol Cadillac intends to pursue revision of the site plan, it should incorporate the following suggestions:

1. The site plan should be submitted for the entire parcel.
2. The type and amount of screening of the display area from the Beltway, as approved by the existing revised site plan, should be continued.
3. Justification should be strong for moving the sign and erecting a 70-ft. high flag pole.
4. Impact of the additional runoff generated by the additional parking area should be examined by the Soil Conservation Service.
5. The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission's regulations and definitions for display area should be revised, particularly as they apply to this property.
6. Greater creativity should go into the design of the display area.

Rita Mannheimer of the Zanecki and Lally law firm representing Capitol Cadillac, took issue with the need for submitting a site plan for the entire parcel when only one area is involved in the proposed change. She explained that there is a detailed plan for the screening, which includes the number and type of shrubs and trees; that provision has been made for sediment control traps to control run-off; that in general the proposed paving would change a muddy, unattractive area into an attractive and useful business asset.

On the subject of the sign location, both Mannheimer and Howard Jobe maintained that the proposed location and orientation of the sign would be a major improvement over the present location. Jobe pointed out that prospective customers traveling south on the Beltway often have trouble finding Capitol Cadillac's location. Moving the sign and changing the angle would help alleviate this problem.

City Manager James K. Giese's comments on the proposal pointed out that the property adjacent to the Beltway is being used for the storage of new vehicles in an essentially unlandscaped lot; Capitol Cadillac is storing vehicles upon its properties in areas designated for other purposes; and the proposed revision to the site plan does not deal with this problem.

Like the APB, Giese recommended disapproval of the site plan revision because the revised site plan essentially provides for a storage parking lot with no significant landscaping and only a gravel surface next to the Capital Beltway and the new Prudential Office Building.

Mayor Richard Castaldi raised a question about Capitol Cadillac's large inventory and its relationship to overflow parking on city streets. He said that an overall site plan is needed which shows parking areas for various uses as required by zoning permits.

The city council agreed that Capitol Cadillac representatives should meet with the city staff to come up with a compromise plan to meet APB objections to the site revision.

Open Letter to GHI Members About Prior Approval of Additions

Dear Member:

Many members, feeling that siding or heat conversion is just around the corner, are making plans to add that long thought-of addition or decorative structure. But, we must remind you that it has always been the policy of this Corporation that any planned modifications to the structure of our particular units must be submitted in writing for written approval from the Staff Architect's Office. In most cases approval, in the form of a building permit, must also be given by the Prince George's County Licenses and Permits Department. These approvals must be obtained in writing BEFORE ANY WORK IS STARTED to avoid future problems. Rehab contracts are let on the basis of existing conditions, therefore any unauthorized changes may significantly increase the cost of these contracts. If incurred, any cost of this nature will be passed on to the member(s) responsible.

If you have any questions on these procedures, please call the Staff Architect's Office at 474-0720 for information. Plans and working drawings for the standard frame home service-side additions are available through the Staff Architect's Office or from our receptionist.

Management has been instructed by the Board to make sure all modifications to the original structures conform to both the Prince George's County Building Code and to GHI Rules, Regulations and Policies.

FIRE WARNING

Late model automobiles with catalytic converters can start leaf or grass fires. This problem is of particular concern in the fall when leaves are piled along the roadside for removal. The catalytic converter on a new automobile will reach extremely high temperatures with prolonged use. The City has been made aware of vehicles in other communities suffering fire damage by parking over piles of leaves which were ignited by the heat generated from the catalytic converters. Owners of late model vehicles should check their owner's manual to determine what care should be taken to avoid causing a fire.
